

Indexes available for the U.S. Congressional Serial Set

The United States Congressional Serial Set is a serially numbered collection of United States Congress House and Senate Reports, Documents, and some related publications. The set is considered a valuable historical documentary compendium without peer.

Publication of the set began in 1789 and continues today. Distribution of the bound volumes was limited to a small number of libraries after the 104th Congress. Gleeson Library | Geschke Center has the set in paper format from volume 12559 in 1963 to volume 14393 in 1997. The Gleeson Library | Geschke Center Government Documents federal depository collection continues to receive individual Reports and Documents. These publications are also online via GPO ACCESS, THOMAS, and LexisNexis Congressional, all available via the library Databases Web pages. The Law Library has the serial set on microfiche from 1789-1969.

For the following years, use the appropriate index to find contents within the serial set:
